BO TREE
ORDERING FOR PARTIES

Thai food is served in the oriental manner with several dishes placed in the centre of the table and shared by all people eating.

In the West we portion the food first on to each plate, meat, potato and vegetables. In the East that portioning is done by helping yourself at the table from a selection of dishes.

For groups of 2 to 5 we recommend that you order an average of one starter and one main course dish per person, plus rice, noodles and/or vegetables. For groups of 6 or more it is not possible to each order individual dishes since there will be long delays both for yourselves, and for all other diners in the restaurant, as each separate dish is cooked. There will also never be enough of any one dish to be shared by all.

You need instead to choose say 4 or 5 dishes and multiply them up to create the number of diners in your group. For example for 8 people, choose 4 dishes and have 2 of each with rice or noodles. For 16 people have 4 dishes and 4 of each, or 5 dishes and 3 of each, and so on.

If you would like a set meal chosen for you we are happy to help.
